

Birthday Books

Birthdays are fun and we like to make them special. Many classes celebrate children's birthdays with cakes, candies, and other sweet treats.

Our class is starting a new birthday tradition to promote reading and sharing, while keeping sugar and food allergen levels down.

Instead of food, your child may treat the class to a new or used book wrapped in birthday paper. After your child unwraps the book, it will be read to the group and either returned home, or donated to our classroom library if specified. We'll also sing and play games to celebrate your child's special day.

Happy Sharing!
