

Here are some music websites that would be of interest to band students. These sites have a wide variety of information and trainers. Trainers are games that test your proficiency on a variety of musical skills such as pitch identification, rhythmic identification, ear training exercises, rhythmic dictation, chord identification, key signature identification, etc.

www.teoria.com

This website is a music theory website with a wide variety of information including tutorials, trainers and articles all related to music theory.

www.musictheory.net

This website has some tutorials and some really great trainers.

www.8notes.com

This site has a good free online metronome. It also has a variety of information about instruments and sheet music that is available for download and/or purchase.

www.practicespot.com

This site has some good trainers. It also contains some good information about practicing.

www.emusictheory.com

Good trainers.

www.musicards.net

This site creates music flashcards for note names, intervals, chords, etc.